

ABSTRACT

An assay for detection of a mammalian cell proliferative disorder associated with a hypermutable nucleic acid sequences is provided. The identification of particular hypermutable sequences such as microsatellite loci correlates with 5 a particular cancer, thereby allowing detection of both primary tumors and metastatic sites within a patient.

05164764-100198